

Since I have a poker site, I have been constantly struggling against everyone.

As a small unknown site, it is very hard to get advertized by bigger site. And there is several simple reasons for that:

Look at the following: you go to a forum and post a link to pokertube, no one will say shit about that. If you post about this site, then they ll call it spam. How funny is that, since from my point of views, videos available on here are way better than the one of the concurrence. In fact you get here the best quality poker streaming around.

Because all this internet segment is a big mafia. And the biggest sites just want to get bigger and send only traffic to their friends! The content is not really important. Important is the collective image that people have about a website. Posting a link from youtube is not the same as posting a link from pokercast.tv. The video could be the same of course. This isn't the question.

People have their routine and hardly walk away from that. That's why I d ask to the few of you that will read this post to help me getting a little more traffic, if you like the content the site provide, of course. If you think this is crap, then follow your way, no hard feeling.

There is a very easy way to tell your friend about this place , a one click contact importer so you can retrieve all mailing contact simply and quickly. You can also use the social bookmark facilities so your friends know the videos you are watching at

I want to keep things going on and improve everything that can be, so this little thing could help me drastically, as it is really hard to be known in the poker world.

Thanks everyone
